

2024 Year-End Planning Checklist

The end of the year is the perfect time to review your financial planning needs with a financial advisor. This checklist can help you review your investment portfolio, assess year-end tax planning opportunities, review retirement goals, and manage your wealth transfer and legacy plans. You may also want to consult a tax professional as you comprehensively consider your options.

As the end-of-year approaches consider the following with your financial professional:

INCOME TAX	RETIREMENT PLANNING

ANNUAL REMINDERS

Year-end is a great time to review general planning considerations with your financial professional, too, including:

- Spending budgets: Review this year's spending and create a budget for next year. Account for upcoming planned assets, big purchases, significant sales, and/or debt and loan options.
- Credit report: The Fair Credit Reporting Act requires each of the nationwide credit reporting companies to provide you a free copy of your credit report once every 12 months.
- Health care and insurance: Review your insurance portfolio to make sure it meets your coverage needs, especially timely in the season of annual benefits enrollment.
- Estate planning: Review your wills and/or revocable living trusts to ensure you have the appropriate executors, trustees, and guardians in place.
